Not illustrated. 1907 Excerpt: ...by the name of the "chain" of ulemas. "The so-called priests," says Von Hammer-Purgstall/ "that is to say, the officiators in the mosques, the prayer-criers, the imams, and the preachers, have perhaps less influence in the Ottoman Empire than in any other state; the teaching corps, on the contrary, has an authority and importance which are unexampled anywhere else except in China." The ulemas are not a sacerdotal class; they are a learned and literary body. From them exclusively are recruited the primary civil functionaries, the magistrates, doctors, and professors. The "chain" of the ulemas includes professors and students, officials and candidates. All the officials are graduated from superior schools (medresses), in which are taught grammar, syntax, logic, rhetoric, metaphysics, geometry, astronomy, jurisprudence, and theology; the two last-named sciences the Moslems treat as one. The candidates pass through the successive degrees of thaleb (student), of damishmend (endowed with science), and of mulazim (prepared). The grade of damishmend suffices for obtaining the position of an imam, of an inferior judge (naib), or of a professor in the primary schools; that of mulazim capacitates the candidate for the position of a muderri (professor), a medresse, of a mollah, or of one of the high officers of the magistracy. Ten degrees are conferred in the class of muderris. These can be gained only successively and always in the order of age. Every passage from one grade to another demands a new diploma (ronus). Arrived at the grade of Suleymanieh, the ulemas pass in the order of age from the corps of muderris to that of mollahs. The Ottoman body of magistrates is divided into five orders distinct in rank, prerogatives, and...

As a pupil exactly feel bored to reading. If their teacher expected them to go to the library or even make summary for some reserve, they are complained. Just very little students that has reading's heart and soul or real their passion. They just do what the teacher want, like asked to the library. They go to at this time there but nothing reading really. Any students feel that looking at is not important, boring and also can't see colorful images on there. Yeah, it is to become complicated. Book is very important for you personally. As we know that on this time, many ways to get whatever you want. Likewise word says, ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore , this Poland, The Balkans, Turkey, Minor eastern states, China, Japan Volume 24 can make you sense more interested to read.
