Created as intercultural and interdisciplinary, conferences of the series Cognitive Modeling in Linguistics have been successfully held since 1998. During all these years CML has visited a number of countries, attracting more and more scientists from all over the world and thus broadening the scope of its topics. The conference has worked out its scientific character and now it has a constant core of participants; and the term cognitive modeling became a popular topic of profile conferences in linguistics and artificial intelligence, which also witnesses for the right direction of movement. The present issue gathered the most outstanding and interesting articles of the participants of the XIII-th International Conference Cognitive Modeling in Linguistics, whose studies will no doubt be of interest for both scientists who have tied their life with linguistics, as well as for those people who treat it as a hobby. All information about CML conferences is given on the website.
